
Readers don’t just pass through a story, they grow it. Line by line, a mental model takes root, tended by attention and watered by wonder, until understanding blooms into something that brings the Reader opportunities and joy.
— JAN MILLER BURKINS
teracyheart.com